

- This is a web page for the Vietnamese Association that I was a part of in high school (they do not have a web page yet). I take inspiration from college clubs' web pages and create my own.
- Without a web page, some students never knew about it until a random friend told them, or that they were not interested because there was simply no information provided unless they went to the welcoming party, which is also information that is not widely distributed. Now, with a web page, any new or prospective student can easily do a single google search to find out more about the association as well as the opportunities that it offers.
